

Community Partnerships

Gustolab International works with community partners in order to provide students with a complete and rewarding academic experience, not only in the classroom but also within the local community. We care about helping our students understand the real challenges local organizations face and offering them a wide variety of occasions for cultural immersion.

We work closely with associations, non profit organizations and startups that share our mission to create tailored learning opportunities that bring the community and the students together in a beneficial exchange.

Some of our national and local Roman community partners are:

Linaria is an independent and nonprofit association, based in Italy, created with the aim of promoting a new culture of urban sustainable gardens. Experimentation, recycle, self-construction and sharing are the keywords of Linaria's innovative approach to contemporary urban landscape. The transformation actions are developed by Linaria with a strict connection to potential existing resources that are shapeless in the starting condition of the space: its previous use is revolutionized and this process also involves the intangible relationships that may take place in the projected space. Linaria believes in botanical, social and cultural diversity as an important value to be defended and as a resource for the enrichment of city life.
